Hi Geoff

Further to our discussion on insurance, I've learnt that it's possible for a contracted entity to request to hold a lesser amount of insurance instead of that currently held. The entity needs to request a lowering of the amount insured and make a case as to why the Commonwealth won't be put at risk by any lowering of the amount insured. In the case of AGAR, I'm not sure how much would be saved and any savings would probably need to be reflected in the next lot of funding anyway.

The difficult thing with the sepsis surveys is that sending samples of antimicrobial resistant infections across the country to be tested sounds potentially very dangerous, even if it may not be. Especially these days. So I'm not sure how requesting a lower insurance would go.

Let me know if you want to discuss it further.

Thanks

Tony
